Top Floor Magazine answers the questions submitted to the Playboy Advisor

This girl that I like broke up with her boyfriend of nine months. I asked her to the movies and got a maybe. What does that mean? - J.H., Brunswick, Maine may·be

/ˈmābə/ ⓘ

- perhaps; possibly.
"maybe I won't go back"

- a mere possibility or probability.
"no ifs, buts, or maybes"

Translations, word origin, and more definitions

Hope this helps.

I had a blind date that went so well, we ended up having sex. But when I went down on her, I was bothered to discover that she had perfumed her pubic area. This woman has many of the qualities I look for in a potential spouse but the fact that she was ready to go to bed with a stranger has me wondering. Am I being a prude or do I have a legitimate concern? - R.H., Prunedale, California

I'm sorry, I don't understand the question. Let me see if I have this straight. You went out with this woman, then had sex with her and now you're questioning the fact that she was prepared to have sex with you based on perfume in her pubic area. See...you are the reason why so many women who ARE attracted to a guy make him wait for sex. One wrong move and BOOM she's a slut. REALLY? Contrary to popular belief it doesn't take a woman 30 seconds to decide if she will sleep with a guy, it actually takes 30 seconds to decide that she won't or if she is open to the possibility. You don't know if she perfumes herself there all the time or 30 seconds after you met.

I will save my usual condemnation, I think you may have had your fill of that from the gossip page.

I will say that there's a small chance that this may be a fake. The tats are in place and it appears to be Miley with one exception...the fact that her arm seem attached to her hip.

The underarm is definitely bubbles but what's up with the arm to hip? Who knows! Maybe she's an alien.

How to Clean your catch

You caught it, you kept it...now let's clean it and eat it!

What you need:

- Work table
 - A good fillet or fish-cleaning knife
 - Scaling tool, or a dull knife or a spoon
 - Container for the cleaned fish, zip-top bags work great
 - Bucket for scales and discarded fish parts
1. Cut the fish behind its gills and pectoral fin down to, but not through, the backbone.
 2. Turn the fish so that its back (dorsal fin) is facing you. Make a long slice along the back of the fish from the cut you made behind the gills all the way to the tail.
 3. Repeat this slicing motion until you can lift the meat part way away from the back bone with your thumb.
 4. Once you can lift the meat partially away, continue to run the tip of the knife along the ribs of the fish till you lift the fillet most of the way off the carcass.
 5. Repeat these steps on the other side of the fish.
 6. Remove the fillets from the skin.

TERMINATOR: GENISYS JULY 1ST

When John Connor (Jason Clarke), leader of the human resistance, sends Sgt. Kyle Reese (Jai Courtney) back to 1984 to protect Sarah Connor (Emilia Clarke) and safeguard the future, an unexpected turn of events creates a fractured timeline. Now, Sgt. Reese finds himself in a new and unfamiliar version of the past, where he is faced with unlikely allies, including the Guardian (Arnold Schwarzenegger), dangerous new enemies, and an unexpected new mission: To reset the future...

IN THEATRES NOW

Inside Out

The film will be set in the head of a young girl, Riley, where five emotions - Joy, Anger, Disgust, Fear and Sadness, try to lead the girl through her life.

Jurassic World

In the new film, when the massive and mysterious Indominus rex stages an escape and disappears into the jungle, order turns to mayhem and guests turn into prey. Dinosaurs escape into the open, skies and water to engage in an all-out war for survival, and no corner within the world's greatest theme park is safe anymore.

Dope

In Dope, Malcolm (Shameik Moore) is carefully surviving life in a tough neighborhood in Los Angeles while juggling college applications, academic interviews, and the SAT. A chance invitation to an underground party leads him into an adventure that could allow him to go from being a geek, to being dope, to ultimately being himself.

Stonehearst Asylum

Loosely based on the short story "The System of Doctor Tarr and Professor Fether" by Edgar Allan Poe.

A new employee at a mental hospital becomes attracted to one of his colleagues, but he is unaware of a recent, horrifying change in staff.

There were so many things to enjoy about this film.

I was surprised that Roger Ebert gave it 2 1/2 stars or whatever. The was definitely a four star film.

I don't want to give too much away and the plot is pretty obvious within the first 40 minutes so I'll just leave it to you to decide.

Available On Netflix

American Sniper

There amount of controversy surrounding this film was unwarranted. It's a great story, it doesn't sensationalize violence - it doesn't come close to showing Kyle's 255 kills. Just a good old fashioned war flick.

Hot Girls Wanted

A film about young girls who answer ads to become porn stars. It's informative in that it shows how easy it is to make a living off these naïve young girls but beyond that it just doesn't go deep enough. I'm almost certain HOW TO was not the purpose...Skip it!

HOTTIE OF THE MONTH Carolyn Bruck

Carolyn Bruck is an actress known for being featured in the films The Blue Light (2004), Critical Condition: Stories from the ER (2003) and Port Charles (1997).

She is currently on of the co-anchors of Good Morning Columbus in Columbus, OH.

What makes her even hotter is that she works about a block away from my place of business. I've never met her but I'm sure I'll run into her some day. She's also good friends with someone that I went to school with...Yep, I'll eventually meet her. I'll just meet her...because I'm very married! Can't blame me for looking!

Versus And the winner is...

Carrie Keagan

Keagan hosts No Good TV's original programming, including series Up Close with Carrie Keagan and In Bed with Carrie. She guest co-hosted E!'s The Daily 10; co-anchored Emmy, Oscar and Golden Globe red-carpet coverage for TV Guide Network; and conducted backstage coverage on the Teen Choice Awards on Fox.

Keagan had a recurring role in the Comedy Central series Reno 911! and several roles and cameos in movies, including Superbad, The Hangover, Miss March, American Pie: Book of Love and Smokin' Aces 2: Assassins' Ball. Keagan was featured as a "Babe of the Month" in Playboy Magazine which explains our attraction to her - we tend to have the same taste in women as Hef lol!

Album of the Month

Drones is the seventh studio album by the English rock band Muse. Drones is a concept album following the protagonist's journey from abandonment to indoctrination as a "human drone" and eventual defection. Muse aimed to return to the simpler guitar-bass-drums rock sound of their earlier albums. While I listening I thought that the guitar riff in Psycho was an instant classic until I heard Reapers with it's Eddie Van Halen style licks. This CD is definitely hardware worthy - Great CD

Tracks to look out for - Psycho

The Flag

On the evening of June 17, 2015 Dylann Roof walked into Emanuel African Methodist Episcopal Church in downtown Charleston, South Carolina where he sat in on a small prayer meeting for more than an hour before brandishing a firearm and fatally shooting nine people.

Sylvia Johnson told NBC News a survivor of the mass killing had told her Roof said he “had to” keep shooting, as another churchgoer attempted to talk him out of firing his weapon while he reloaded.

“He just said, ‘I have to do it,’ she said. ‘You rape our women, and you’re taking over our country, and you have to go,’ she said.”

Roof fled the church in his Hyundai sedan – with Confederate flag license plates...

The media went in two directions. Fox News said that it was an attack on Christianity while the rest of mainstream media attacked the Confederate flag.

It just so happens that one of the victims was a senator who had to walk into a building everyday that was topped by the Confederate flag.

While listening to the media coverage the Allen Iverson rant immediately came to mind -

“If I can't practice, I can't practice man. If I'm hurt, I'm hurt. I mean ... simple as that. It ain't about that... I mean it's... It's not about that... At all. You know what I'm saying I mean... But it's...it's easy ... to, to talk about... It's easy to sum it up when you're just talking about practice. We're sitting in here, and I'm supposed to be the franchise player, and we in here talking about practice. I mean, listen, we're talking about practice, not a game, not a game, not a game, we talking about practice. Not a game. Not, not ... Not the game that I go out there and die for and play every game like it's my last. Not the game, but we're talking about practice, man. I mean, how silly is that?”

To put that in perspective, there were nine people dead and while reloading the shooter claimed that “He had to” because African Americans were taking over the country and raping white women and we’re talking about a flag? There are nine people dead that weren’t armed, weren’t out in the streets, they were killed while worshipping in church and we’re talking about a flag?

And Fox News calling in an attack it an attack on faith, a line that was echoed by a number of republicans, was cruelly irresponsible.

Here’s what we know about Dylann Roof...

- Dylann Storm Roof confessed to killing nine people at a historic black church in Charleston because he hoped it would start a “race war.”
- Roof created a website this year called the Last Rhodesian, a reference to the white-ruled African country, which fought a bitter civil war against black majority rule before it became Zimbabwe.

- Roof wore a jacket with the flags of Rhodesia and apartheid-era South Africa on the breast.
- Roof's website features a manifesto where Roof wrote he was radicalized via the Internet following the Trayvon Martin case. Roof wrote he researched "black on white violence," which took him to the website of South Carolina-based hate group the Council of Conservative Citizens (formerly the White Citizens' Council) where he wrote “Niggers are stupid and violent.”

- Roof said “I chose Charleston because it is most historic city in my state, and at one time had the highest ratio of blacks to Whites in the country,” he wrote. “We have no skinheads, no real KKK, no one doing anything but talking on the internet. Well someone has to have the bravery to take it to the real world, and I guess that has to be me.”
- On February 28, Roof was arrested for drug possession at a mall in Columbia, where he was searched by officers after storekeepers complained that he was acting unusually and asking questions about opening hours and the number of staff on the premises. The Wall Street Journal reports a police incident document said Roof was found to have strips of Suboxone, a pain drug sometimes used to treat opiate addiction. He did not have a prescription for the drug, which is commonly sold illegally on the street. Roof was banned from the mall for one year and was out on bond waiting for the courts to process his felony drug-possession charges when he was arrested in the parking lot of the same mall two months later.
- Roof was charged with trespassing on April 26 in violation of his ban from the mall. Roof was found guilty a month later and fined $262.50.

Roof wrote in his Manifesto -

- “The event that truly awakened me was the Trayvon Martin case. I kept hearing and seeing his name, and eventually I decided to look him up. I read the Wikipedia article and right away I was unable to understand what the big deal was. It was obvious that Zimmerman was in the right. But more importantly this prompted me to type in the words ‘black on White crime’ into Google, and I have never been the same since that day.”
- “Segregation was not a bad thing. It was a defensive measure. Segregation did not exist to hold back negroes.”

- “Black people view everything through a racial lens. That’s what racial awareness is, its viewing everything that happens through a racial lens. They are always thinking about the fact that they are black. This is part of the reason they get offended so easily, and think that some thing are intended to be racist towards them, even when a White person wouldn’t be thinking about race.”
- “Anyone who thinks that White and black people look as different as we do on the outside, but are somehow magically the same on the inside, is delusional. How could our faces, skin, hair, and body structure all be different, but our brains be exactly the same? This is the nonsense we are led to believe,” he writes. “Negroes have lower Iqs, lower impulse control, and higher testosterone levels in generals. These three things alone are a recipe for violent behavior. If a scientist publishes a paper on the differences between the races in Western Europe or Americans, he can expect to lose his job.”

And we’re talking about a flag.

Once again, the media and politicians, for the most part, have missed an opportunity to talk about something of substance regarding the sickness’ that plague this country.

Take a look at this photo...

Which is more disturbing - the Confederate flag in his hand or the 9mm in his other?

Which one of the two did he use to kill nine people?

Yet, we were not talking about the fact that a mentally questionable person with a criminal record has possession of a deadly firearm.

This doesn’t make anyone dangerous...

This does!

What Rush Limbaugh mentioned during his radio show made a really good point (yep, I said it) about this last picture. Next we will be attacking Seagram’s and Budweiser!

What we’re not talking about is the fact that Roof purchased the gun he used in the murders on April 11th, a month and a half AFTER he was arrested for drug possession.

We’re also not talking about the fact that during the murders he mentioned that Blacks were “taking over the country,” a battle cry that was brought to the national stage by the Tea Party shortly after the inauguration of the nation’s first African-American president. You want to talk about a symbol, how about these...

During Donald Trump's announcement that he would be running for president, Trump referred to Mexican immigrants as drug dealers and rapist - this was after Roof killed nine African Americans for taking over the country and "raping our women."

Why aren't we talking about the fact that militia groups have risen over 400% since Obama has taken office.

The same can be said for gun sales in this country.

More than 70 million guns have been purchased since Obama was elected.

Lastly, why aren't we talking about the fact that Freddie Gray - a black man stopped for weapon possession in Baltimore - was folded in half like a piece of paper before being killed by a broken neck inflicted by the sudden deceleration of the police van carrying him off to jail while Dylann Roof - who murdered nine respectable members of the African-American community - complained of hunger and was treated to Burger King on his way to jail.

There lies the problem.

I agree with President Obama in that it is no longer polite to refer to a Black man as a nigger in public but that doesn't mean racism isn't still alive and well.

As long as we have media services like Fox News - the most viewed cable news network - calling the murder of nine African-Americans an attack on faith.

If politicians refuse to acknowledge a duck as a duck in a back handed attempt to play to their base who they assume are made up of a huge number of people who are at odds with minorities.

AND...as long as mainstream media and liberals are using this as an argument to get rid of a flag - this will only get worse.

Newsflash - Nikki Haley, the governor of South Carolina, got it right when she said that they should push for the death penalty.

If he gets life in prison he will be accepted by other white supremacist with open arms, I wouldn't be surprised if they don't have framed pictures of Roof on their prison walls already. Unfortunately, there are thousands waiting for their chance to be just like him.

I grew up watching The Dukes of Hazard with Bo and Luke Duke driving around in the General Lee with the Confederate flag on the roof. My Dad had a watch with a Dixie Land alarm. I have never felt threatened or offended by Confederate symbolism.

It's ridiculous to think that this is even a small part of the problem. What we need to do is eliminate divisive rhetoric from our culture. Stop trying to take America back (from who), accusing minorities EVERYTHING and...well, there's a really long list!

Minorities in this country have 99 problems but believe me when I say the Confederate flag ain't one.

Laughs

How can you tell if you're making love to a teacher, a nurse or an airline stewardess?

A teacher says we got to do this over and over again until we get it right.

A nurse says hold still this won't hurt a bit.

And a airline stewardess says put this over your mouth and nose and breathe normally.

A man is talking to his best friend about married life.

"You know," he says, "I really trust my wife, and I think she has always been faithful to me. But there's always that doubt."

His friend says, "Yeah, I know what you mean."

A couple of weeks later the man has to go out of town on business. Before he goes, he gets together with his friend.

"While I'm away, could you do me a favor? Could you watch my house and see if there is anything fishy going on? I mean, I trust my wife but there's always that doubt."

The friend agrees to help out, and the man leaves town.

Two weeks later he comes back and meets his friend.

"So did anything happen?"

"I have some bad news for you," says the friend.

"The day after you left I saw a strange car pull up in front of your house. The horn honked and your wife ran out and got into the car and they drove away. Later, after dark, the car came back. I saw your wife and a strange man get out. They went into the house and I saw a light go on, so I ran over and looked in the window. Your wife was kissing the man. Then he took off his shirt. Then she took off her blouse. Then they turned off the light."

"Then what happened?" says the man.

"I don't know. It was too dark to see."

"Damn, you see what I mean? There's always that doubt."

This guy goes to a doctor and says he has a problem with sex.

"Doc, I think my dick is just too damn small," he says.

The doctor asks him which drink he prefers.

Well, American beer," he replies quite bemused.

"Aaaahhh. There's your problem, it shrinks things, those silly American beers.. you should try drinking Guinness.

That makes things grow."

Two months later the chap returns to the doctor with a big smile on his face.

He shakes the doctor by the hand and thanks him.

"I take it you now drink Guinness?" asked the doctor.

"Oh no, Doc," replies the man, "but I've got the wife on American beer!"

A man goes to his doctor and complains that his wife hasn't wanted to have sex with him for the past six months.

The doctor tells the man to bring his wife in so he can talk to her and hopefully determine what the problem is.

The following day, the wife goes to the doctor's office. The doctor asks her what's wrong, why doesn't she want to have sex with her husband?

"Oh, that's easily explained. For the past six months," the wife says, "I've been taking a cab to work every morning. I don't have any money. The cab driver asks me, 'Are you going to pay today, or what?' So, I take an 'or what'."

"Then, when I get to work," she continues, "I'm late, so the boss asks me, 'Are we going to write this down in the book, or what?' So, I take an 'or what'.

I take a cab to go home after work and, as usual, I have no money. The cab driver asks me again, 'So, are you going to pay this time, or what?' Again, I take an 'or what'.

So you see, doc, by the time I get home I'm all tired out and don't want it anymore."

"Yes, I see," replies the doctor. "So, are we going to tell your husband, or what?"

After three years of marriage, Kim was still questioning her husband about his lurid past.

"C'mon, tell me," she asked for the thousandth time, "how many women have you slept with?"

"Baby," he protested, "if I told you, you'd throw a fit".

Kim promised she wouldn't get angry, and convinced her hubby to tell her.

"Okay," he said, "One, two, three, four, five, six, seven - then there's you - nine, ten, 11, 12, 13.."

Bedroom Golf →

1. Each player shall furnish his own equipment for play. Normally one club and two (2) balls.
2. Play on a course must be approved by the owner of the holes.
3. Owner of the course must approve the equipment before may begin.
4. For most effective play, the club must have a firm shaft. Course owners are permitted to check the shaft stiffness before play begins.
5. Course owners reserve the right to restrict the shaft length to avoid any damage to the course.
6. Unlike outdoor golf, the goal is to get the club into the hole, while keeping the balls out.
7. The object of the game is to take as many strokes as deemed necessary until the course owner is satisfied that play is complete. Failure to do so may result in being denied permission to play the course in the future.
8. The course owner will be the sole judge as to who is the best player.
9. Before membership is considered, additional assessments may be levied by the course owner, and rules are subject to change. For this reason many players prefer to continue to play different courses.

Fun Sex Facts & Figures

- Varsity athletes have more sex. It probably has something to do with being fit and flexible. Which likely makes for more versatility and stamina in the bedroom. There's a study that proves it!
- In Colorado, it is against the law to kiss a sleeping woman.
- There are approximately 100 million acts of sexual intercourse each day.
- During the female orgasm, endorphins are released, which are powerful painkillers. A lovemaking session can release the tension that restricts blood vessels in the brain. So headaches are in fact a bad excuse not to have sex.
- Studies have proven that 85 per cent of men who die of heart attacks during intercourse, are found to have been cheating on their wives.
- Sex is the safest tranquilizer in the world. It is 10 times more effective than valium!

Honey West Presents

Sweet, Sweet Candy!

As part of my HW Retro series, it's a blast this month to look back at one of the wildest, weirdest and most hallucinogenic cult classic 60's flicks: "Candy". And Candy of course, is loaded with eye candy! The Number One requirement of my retrospective is that it must feature a hot, sexy chick who epitomizes the unique glamor of her era. For me, one of those women is the star of this bizarre romp - a blond Swedish-born stunner named Ewa Aulin.

If you don't recognize her name, that's understandable. She didn't make many films and pretty much left the movie biz by the 70's Bummer! This babe should have stuck around a few more years to become a mega star, especially for those of us who adore the pouty, innocently sexual look that she so artfully portrayed in iconic style. And without a doubt, the best thing about retro is that the girls were all natural – no collagen! Those voluptuous kissable lips are the real deal and so are the boobs! <sigh!>

When I reflect on the 60's era, I always think of Ewa as a symbol of that time in her role as Candy. This gorgeous teen nymph could flaunt a mini dress like nobody else! Perhaps I should express my admiration in appropriate 60's language, like, wow, man, her aura glows, her inner peace, self-enlightenment, and cosmic oneness with the universe is souh....cosmic! Regardless of how you express your inner hippie, Ewa was (and probably still is) an extremely hot babe from an era when there were a lot of hot babes.

And look, she's standing on shag carpet which makes this pic even more awesome for us retro freaks! I've watched Candy a few times, (okay, I confess, more than a few times), and during the first viewing, it was an edited version on T.V. in the 80's, I had no clue what was going on. I just loved the visuals, the music and the overall trippy feeling. It's based on a satirical novel by Terry Southern written in 1958. It's not a sci-fi flick like Barbarella, but both movies follow a similar theme: naive hottie girl, looking for her inner guru, wanting to spread love everywhere she goes (heh heh). She's sexually taken advantage of by a series of lecherous, sleazy dudes.

That theme was rather common in the 60's, every guy's ultimate fantasy! Many critics felt that Candy was just an excuse to make a porno without actually calling it porn.

Released in 1968, it was “X” rated, so a lot of kids in that era couldn’t even get in to a movie theater to see it. Today, it would probably be “PG”! Ahh, how times have changed. True, there’s a kinky undertone between Candy Christian and her “daddy” (played by John Astin) which would still raise eyebrows even in today’s permissive world, but that’s about as overtly kinky as it gets, along with a few quick flashes of semi-nudity. Unless you can relate to the social/political remarks woven into the fabric of the movie, you’ll miss some of the clever, sexy references.

For me, the craziest thing about Candy is the cast of mega stars. There’s a crapload (and I use that term with all due respect!) of incredibly famous people here. For example: famed actor Richard Burton playing a narcissistic totally fucked up poet named McPhisto who seems to travel with his own invisible wind machine, blowing his hair in a perpetual fake romantic breeze. Quite funny!

Then there’s Marlon Brando as a phony guru who lives in the back of a moving van, plus Ringo Starr making his film debut playing a Mexican gardener with a reeeeeeeally bad accent who ravishes innocent Candy on a pool table.

Walter Matthau portrays a right-wing military dude who wants to fuck Candy to create a future generation of blond, blue eyed leaders of the future, and James Coburn is a seriously wigged out surgeon. Even Sugar Ray Robinson gets some screen time. What more could a retro- maniac want? Really, there’s a ton of oddness here!

For me, the best is Burton and Brando. Burton is hilariously pompous and lecherous and drunk. I think he probably was actually drunk when he agreed to do the role. Marlon Brando as a disgustingly phony guru lech, seducing Candy as they roll down the highway, is beyond weird. You definitely won’t recognize Brando, so it’s worth it to catch his freaky, sexually manipulative outrageous antics. He’s actually pretty damn funny.

Candy and her guru Marlon!

Needless to say, the 60’s was a strange era when mainstream superstars desperately tried to break from their straight images, getting “hip”, attempting (and usually failing) to attract the Youth Generation.

It was the age of Vietnam, The Doors, The Byrds and The Stones. This pressure led to some really big name actors making total jackasses of themselves in various movies of that period, but hey, they probably had a fabulous drunk and/or high time doing it! And lucky for us, we can have some laughs watching this exotic movie which actually does contain messages about society, sex, porn, daddies and daughters (oops, I won’t go there!), the military, the medical establishment, Mexican gardeners, 60’s rock (Steppenwolf had a major hit called “Rock Me” from the film’s soundtrack), psychedelics, mini-skirts, and last but not least, Candy’s devotion to giving her body purely, wide-eyed, without questioning the naughty and bad bad motives of the tail-chasing males who surround her beautiful self. Hey, Candy, : give, give, give! It’s your cosmic duty, baby!

There are some frustrating flashes of nudity, which only make you crave more of Ewa Aulin's illegally beautiful body. Let's face it, the whole movie should have been Ewa walking around naked.

To make up for the lack of nude shots, here's a rare one of Ewa (not from Candy) that I'm sure will put a smile on your face.

Where have women like this gone? I just don't see ladies in movies today with Ewa's natural beauty.. Some trivia about Ms. Aulin: She won Miss Teen Sweden at age 15, and then won the first Miss Teen International pageant in 1966.

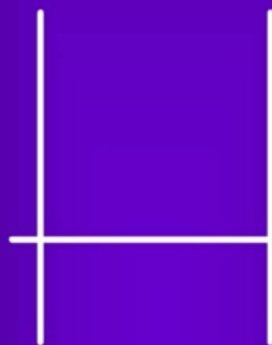

Producers and agents saw her at Teen International, and her career took off. Her wistful yet intensely sexual looks seemed to capture the vibe of a generation and were utilized in several films, but Candy is the one she'll always be remembered for.

Candy is available on DVD, and is occasionally shown on cable.

And yes, I own the DVD, it's one of my guilty pleasures.

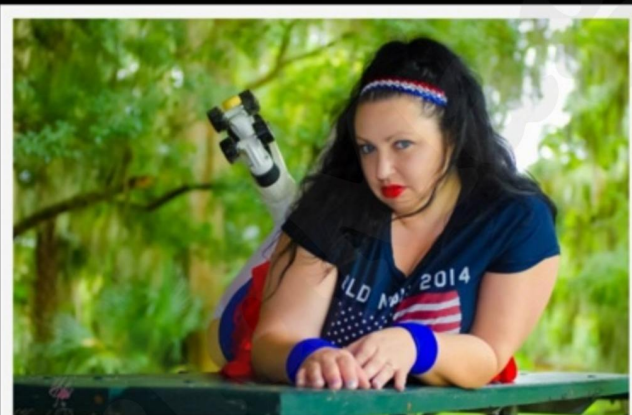

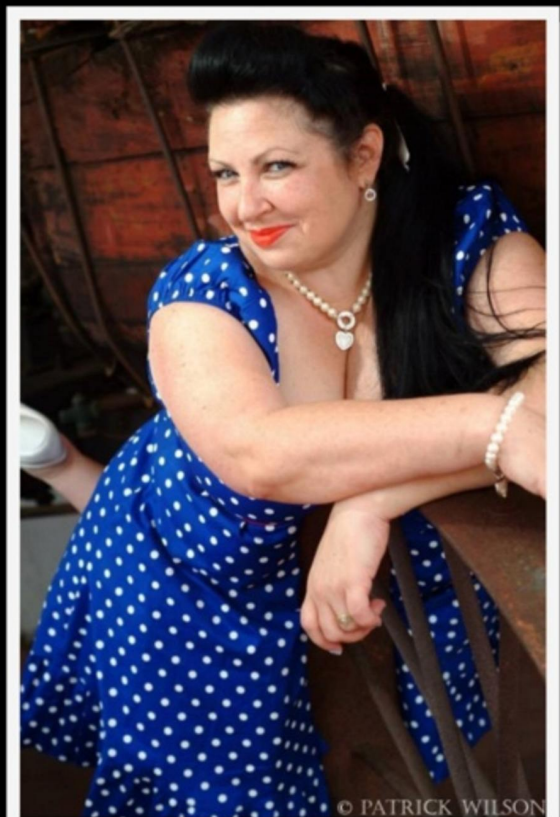

When "millennials" say that they aren't interested in movies from earlier eras because they don't know or care about these iconic performers, I do my best to educate them - with L-O-V-E, of course! Because, hey, that's what our sweet Candy would want! Peace!

Award-winning photographer Jack Watson has crafted a unique book dedicated to female glamour images created in black and white to honor the famous Hollywood stills photographers of the 1920's and 30's. With the help of a large collection of stunning glamour models who have been featured globally in many print, web, and video media including Playboy Enterprises™, Watson shows you how he creates sensuous, seductive glamour black and white images out of virtually any color glamour photograph. Dispelling the myth that not all color images make good black and white images, this book illustrates how virtually any glamour photo can be converted to create the look of the Hollywood masters.

Jack Watson's Complete Guide to Creating Black and White Female Glamour Images includes a CD with every photo in the book. All of the black and white photos started out as color digital files. They have been provided in their original color form for your unrestricted non-commercial use. This book is for those who have some basic Photoshop skills and want to broaden their horizons and experiment with additional plug-ins and software such as Nik Color Efex Pro Complete, Nik Silver Efex Pro, Topaz Adjust, and Topaz BW Effects. It's also for anyone who just loves looking at beautiful black and white female glamour images.

While most of the images in the book are "sexy" in nature, a number of examples show how sexy is not always the naked truth, but quite the contrary. Clothed or nude, the female form is a thing of beauty. At the very least, this book will make you rethink what is truly glamorous. Creating black and white glamour photos will help you see with your brain and feel with your heart. Remember it's not what you see in a photograph that moves you; it's what you don't see. So, boot up your computer, open your favorite photo software, and put the CD in the drive, and create some magic.
